Fishing

The Upper and Lower Lough Erne are waters particularly prized by fishermen. In the Irish Republic, you need a licence but only for certain type of fish; ask for more details at the base. Warning: laws have changed and have become more restrictive since 2006. In Northern Ireland however a fishing licence is required: about € 12,50 for 3 days and € 40 for 21 days (checks are made).

Advice for navigation

In Ireland, the locks work with a magnetic card that can be bought at the base for the price of €13. Locks are open every day from 9am to 8pm. The same card allows to access to the toilets in public ports, showers, washing machines and to empty the used water holding tanks. Spending the night in public ports is free but costs about € 15 in private marinas. It is forbidden to spend the night anchored on the lakes. Leaving from Leitrim and going south, the locks are manual and cost about € 1.50.

Navigation on the lakes is forbidden in rough weather (Force 3 Beaufort). Children up to the age of 17 must wear a life jacket. On the lakes, make sure you stay in the middle of the channel. Otherwise, you risk running aground. Refloating a boat entails significant costs, and these are covered neither by the insurance nor by the accidental damage waiver and will be for you to pay should this happen.

The Irish rules
